Vol. 35, No. 13 — CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA. — FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1928

Pertinent Paragraphs

We view with alarm the ever increasing number of crimes committed "in and for the state of California." One glance at the headlines of our morning paper brings before our mind's eye a vast panorama of mutilated bodies, rat-faced gunmen, weak-chinned degenerates, flapper husband slayers and absconding bank cashiers. At the close of the war we had a fair excuse to offer ever watchful foreign nations—and incidentally ourselves. The "crime wave as a naural aftermath of the war" gag is pretty nearly worn out. How much longer will the American people kid themselves into believing that the war can be blamed for the laxity of public officials and the lack of parental discipline in the home? We of the rural communities and smaller towns are too ready to assume the attitude "that the crime in the cities is really deplorable but thank heaven we are free from it." Modesto, one of the smaller valley towns whose jail capacity is 40 prisoners, is at the present time host to 54 criminals. Laugh that off—and leave the war out of it. Most of the men who became inured to sudden death "over there" have long since gone to work at honest jobs, situations, positions or what have you.

Harry Hartman, en route from New York, where he had been taken into custody by two United States marshalls, to Los Angeles where he was to have answered a charge of forgery, escaped from the train at Goffs, Ariz., after having borrowed the pistol, handcuffs and clothing of one of his captors. He later appeared in the office of Deputy Sheriff Dankin of Los Angeles and threatened to kill him. Still at large, Hartman retains for Los Angeles the record gained by that city some years ago, when a John Law was held up, robbed of gun and money and sent home in his B. V. D's by a thug who must surely have possessed a father highly developed sense of humor.

The California State Automobile association reports that a number of states are empowering their vehicle license departments to refuse licenses to owners who propose to clutter up the highways with old and decrepit automobiles which are, in most cases, defective as to the essentials—brakes, lights, etc. It seems that the aforementioned states are displaying an astute progressiveness highly commendable. California might well adopt a similar ruling, for of all the states in the union, California is cursed with perhaps the greatest numbre of potential "death mills." Hacks of ancient vintage hurtle over our highways and no one, the driver least of all, knows when they are going to disintegrate, taking a few innocent bystanders with them on their last, long journey.

A Los Angeles judge who in his youth drove a milk wakon, recently made a ruling based on his experience gained at that time. Counsel in an "automobile versus milk wagon case" pointed out that perhaps "the horse had skinned his legs in his stall." The judge ruled that "a horse would not skin his legs in the stall, due to the equine method of rising." It evidently did not occur to the learned judge that the horse might, and probably did, bark his shins in FALLING DOWN in the stall.

A Campbell pastor Sunday night counseled caution in the Sheriff Lyle matter. In view of the fact that action has been already long delayed, he said, a little more of the same would not matter materially and would give the investigators additional time in which to dig up conclusive evidence of alleged graft and failure of performance of duty on the part of county officials. The point was well taken. It seems impossible that the blame rests with any one man. Time and diligent search will doubtless reveal others and result in a wholesale cleanup.

Javier Garribo and Thomas Ulloa started Wednesday from New York to hike to Antofogasto, Chile, hoping to complete the 9,000-mile trip in thre and a half years. Judging from what we've seen of the South American coast the lads are in for some tough going.

MONDAY, OCT. 1, SEES START OF EVENING CLASSES AT CAMPBELL HIGH

Afternoon and evening adult classes will begin at the Campbell Union high school next Monday, Oct. 1.

The Americanization classes will include English for beginners, intermediate and advanced students, and a citizenship class to prepare for the court examination required of those making application for naturalization papers. These classes will meet Tues., Wed. and Thur. evenings from 7 to 9 p. m. in the high school annex ony Rincon Ave., beginning Tues. evening, Oct. 2.

Dresmaking and millinery classes will be conducted in the sewing room of the high school in the afternoon from 2 to 4, dressmaking on Monday and Wednesday, beginning Oct. 1, and millinery on Tuesday and Thursday, beginning Oct. 2. Mrs. Roberts, the instructor, has recently returned from an extended trip through the east, and comes to her work with many new ideas in wearing apparel. In the dressmaking class opportunity will be afforded to make coats and silk and wool dresses. In millinery, the time will be devoted to the making of hats of the season, velvets and felts.

On Wednesday evenings, beginning Oct. 3, from 7:30 to 9:30, there will be held in the high school shop a class in general shop work, the exact nature of the work depending on th interests of the persons enrolled.

There will also be a class in basketry on Wednesday evenings in the main building of the high school.

On Monday and Thursday evenings Mrs. Heller will again teach china decorating.

Plans are under way for the establishing of the open forum again this year under Profesor Lundkvist, who last year conducted the meetings to the satisfaction of those who attended.

There will be an evening school chorus again this year on Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Mr. Homer Pugh of San Jose has been secured as director. Mr. Pugh has had considerable experience in chorus work and members of last year's chorus are looking forward to an enjoyable year in ensemble singing. The first rehearsal will be held next Thursday evening.

KIWANIS HEAR FRED MORRISON'S REPORT ON COMMUNITY CHEST; NEW SLOGAN

The new slogan that is being taught the residents of Santa Clara County was given its debut at Campbell Tuesday, when Fred Morrison, manager of the country Community Chest, presented a few interesting facts of that organization before the Kiwanis club.

The local club members are 100 per cent supporters of the Community Chest and thoroughly appreciated getting this first hand inside information. The Chest is now an organization of highly specialized men and women workers, who are doing the work in conjunction with and assisted by the service clubs. This association of charities prevents the duplication or overlapping of the work of various bodies if working independently. The Chest has already taken over the books and office work of nine member associations, thereby greatly reducing the overhead of management.

The latest work of the Chest is the assistance of the storm zone in Florida by sending the Red $5,000.

T. A. Cutting, chairman of the local Chest campaign, was chairman of the day and urged every one to give his hearty support and cooperation to this big movement "Where Dollars Bring Happiness."

Carl Field will officiate at the next session and our winter sojourners, Mark Purmort and Ira Abbott will expound their tales of wanderlust.

MAYFIELD SMITH BURIED TUESDAY

Mayfield Smith, who had been ill at O'Connor sanitarium for two months, passed away Sunday and was buried Tuesday morning. Funeral services were held from the parlors of McNaffy and Higgins, and St. Joseph's church, San Jose. The remains were laid to rest in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mr. Smith was a native son, born seventy-eight years ago near Mountain View, where his parents located after crossing the plains in '48. Later they moved to the King River territorry east of Fresno, but in 1864 they returned and settled on a tract on the Meridian Dry Creek road, where Mr. Smith grew up and has maintained his home all these years.

During his life time spent in this region, Mr. Smith has witnessed many changes, the country developing from farming lands to orchards, and Los Gatos creek leave its old bed which is now the Dry Creek road; and the little old school house at cambrian where he was one of the first pupils, grow to its present size, along with the many other fine schools and colleges of the valley.

Mr. Smith is survived by his widow, Evelyn Margaret Smith, a son, Mark H., and two daughters, Patrice A. and Mrs. May Fox, and a brother living in Downey, California, to whom are extended sincere sympathy in the loss of their dear one.

FARLEY REPRESETS THOMAS & SON

Wendell Thomas & Son, of San Jose, in order to more efficiently serve their clientile, have entered into working arrangements with local real estate offices, or established branches, in Campbell, Gilroy, Los Gatos and Mountain View. Their speciality is realty development and subdivision of desireable tracts into homesites. A number of fine tracts will soon open up near the new Rinconada golf course and plans are being perfected for the subdividing of an exceptionally fine tract in Campbell.

G. E. Farley, our local realtor, in addition to handling his own business as in the past, will be the local representative of Wendell Thomas & Son, having the exclusive local sale of their subdivisions.

NEW LOCATION FOR GOMES BARBER SHOP

Campbell is having its own movies in real life. J. J. Gomes plans to move into his new location next to the Press office this week in order to serve a clean shave for Sunday shieks.

STANFORD SCENE OF OLD HOOVER STORY

Will Irwin, the author, has brought the latest Hoover story to Republican headquarters.

It all happened when Hoover was a sophomore at Stanford University in 1892. That was a hot campaign year with both Republican and Democratic clubs formed among the student body, although a large number were not of voting age, Hoover among them. Cleveland beat Harrison and the Stanford Democratic club organized the usual torch-light procession to celebrate the victory.

As a "counter-irritant", to quote from the doctors, the Republican club of which Hoover was a prominent member decided to play a practical joke and they got out the fire hose. Each man was given a post of duty. Hoover's was at the fire plug armed with a wrench. His was the duty to turn the water ongently at a given signal. Just a sort of Honolulu haze was all that was wanted and not a deluge. But the Republican nominee for the presidency became excited as the zero hour drew near and when he got the signal he "gave 'em the works" and soon the scene was filled with fleeing Democrats.

"Who knows but what the rout of 1892 will be repeated in 1928?" asked Irwin.

GRANGE RESOLUTION ON BOULDER DAM

Mr. Clendenning reported to the Grange Tuesday evening on a trip through the region north of the bay, where he said peach growers wer getting very little for their crop and large quantities had gone towaste on the ground, as priceswould not pay for harvesting them. Speaking of the failure of cooperative marketing, he said he still believed in cooperation, but that the system had not been given a fair trial yet. The securing of efficient and fair minded men to hadle the products of farms and orchards and get for the growers a reasonable price is often a difficult matter, and growers necessarily suffer in the meantime, but cooperation seems to be the only way out and growers must stand together for their own interests.

Mr. Purmort, of the poultry committee, had recently returned from a trip east, where he found people advising farmers to go into the poultry business, when facts on every hand showed there was too much poultry now. Eggs were the price as 15 years ago, while feed and nearly everything else had doubled in price.

He recommended poultrymen to cull hard, discarding everything but the best.

Potatoes in Wisconsin were not worth digging, farmers were being hit hard, more damages there by storms than he had ever seen by earthquakes in Canifornia.

Mr. H. G. Keesling told how to propogate tulips, hyacinth and other bulbs by cutting them with a knife from the bottom up half way, making a cross cut which will cause them to make numerous small bulbs along the edge of the cut, when they are planted as usual.

The lecturers hour opened with vocal solos by Miss Jackson, who sang "A Poor Man's Garden," and "A Little Cottage 'Neath the Blue Sky," which were highly appreciated. These were followed by an address by Hon T. M. Wright, on "A trip to China." This would have to be heard to be appreciated. One of his first impressions was of the great masses of people everywhere—four hundred and twenty-five millions of them, or about four times the population of the United States; and these people are in the throes of a great revolution, trying to establish a new and better government. The wages of common labor is about 10 to 20 cents per day, and great numbers of them fight to get even this small amount. He told of their glad and happy meeting with their daughter, and of their trip together through varioustpa rts of the country. Ehe is learning the language and was of great assistance as interpreter.

The next meeting of the grange will be at 7:30 o'clock instead of 8 as through the summer.

Pomona Grange meets Oct. 6 at Aromas, beginning at 1:30 p. m.: also an evening session.

The following resolution on the Boulder Dam project was read by Leroy Anderson and passed by the Grange:

Whereas, the state and national Grange has for many years expressed itself as being opposed to the use of any publicmonies to re-

CHEF'S TIPS FOR RAINY WEATHER

Motorists of California were warned today by the division of motor vehicles of the approach of the annual rainy season and the consequent need of more careful driving.

Records of the division show a particularly large number of serious accidents each year during the early part of the wet season. Division officials belive most of the accidents could have been prevented had motorists realized that they were driving under entirely new conditions and adjusted themselves to these conditions.

Skidding, declared Chief Frank G. Snook, is 90 per cent preventable and is almost invariably the result of careless or "sloppy" driving. Here are a few wet weather suggestions offered by Snook:

Check and oil windshield wipers before the first rain to be sure they are working properly. Failure of the wiper to function may result in a serious accident.

When pavements are wet and slippery allow at least one-third more distance than you allow under normal conditions to bring your car to a stop.

If your car skids do not lose your head and jam on the brakes and don't throw your clutch out. Give your wheel a slight turn in the direction the rear end is skidding and let compression stop you. Under no circumstances should you use your full braking power, for you may turn over.

Watch other cars at intersections carefully. They may not be equipped with brakes as good as yours.

Leave plenty of room between your car and the one in front of you.

Be extremely careful about getting off the edge of the pavement in loose gravel or mud during rainy weather.

Check up your tires. Badly worn tires might be laid away for use in the dry season and substituted with tires upon which there is plenty of tread to provide traction.

If you are going into the mountains or over bad roads provide yourself with a set of tire chains.

Watch for pedestrians at night on wet pavements when the vision of the pedestrian is likely to be obscured.

Have your brakes adjusted before the first rain. Unequalized brakes may cause you to turn over on a slippery road.

Above all, drive slowly and carefully in rainy weather.

Golden State
News of Interest to All

California has sent 77 lepers to the Federal Leprosarium at Carville, La., since the institution was opened in 1922, according to the State Department of Public Health. Nine have been sent this year.

Despite his note indicating suicide, Percy F. Barnes, slayer of four men in a shooting orgy at Sacramento August 27, died in his county jail cell last week of heart attack, it was indicated following an autopsy. Dr. C. H. McDonnell, county autopsy surgeon, found no indications of poisoning, it was announced, but discovered that Barnes had been suffering from a serious heart condition which probably resulted in his sudden death.

Emergency forest fire conditions and a reputation of the disastrous man-caused brush and timber fires that have swept the State during the past few weeks may necessitate the closing of all national forests in California to public use and travel until the fall rains set in, according to S. B. Show, chief of the California District, United States Forest Service.

Butte County, is probably the first California city to arrest a pedestrian for carrying a "tail light." Joseph Marcel, Los Angeles county "hitch-hiker," according to word received, was temporarily detained for investigation because of his unusual highway equipment. Marcel carried a flighlight to hail passing motorists at night and also had a small "tail light" strapped on his pack as a signal to automobiles on the road behind him.

One man was seriously injured, several cars and their cargoes were reduced to splinters and a long stretch of Northwestern Pacific tracks was strewn with wreckage when a freight train crashed into the rear of another near Chiquita a few days ago. Possibility that several other men may be buried in the train's wreckage was expressed by the one known victim, Chris Dellas of San Francisco. Dellas said he and six other men had caught a ride on the forward train.

partment failed to protect unit buyers.

State aid was extended to 14,500 orphans and half orphans in California during the past fiscal year, Mrs. Ana L. Saylor, head of the State Department of Social Welfare, reports. More than 18,000 children were cared for in orphanages, day nurseries, preventoria, rescue homes, schools for defectives, boarding homes, homes for convalescents and child-placing agencies, Mrs. Saylor said. The total of 1500 orphan children were adopted during the twelve months.

Menaced by two blue automatics in the hands of a youthful masked bandit, fifty passengers on the San Francisco-bound Southern Pacific "Lark" one night last week disorged money and valuables worth nearly $1,000. The loot was dropped into a hat passed through the crowded club car of the train by one of the bandit's victims. Filling his pockets with the collected booty, the robber opened a vestibule door and leaped from the train as it pulled into Glendale at thirty mjles an hour.

Fishing interests are planning to go before the next State legislature with a plan to extend the season on bass and salmon in the lower Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers two weeks. I. N. Hylen, secretary of the Sacramento Fishermen's Union, states that the plans for the longer season are due to the fact that river fishermen have made practically no catch this year. The season closed Saturday. The fishermen also will ask a law to prevent the spearing of salmon at up-river points during the spawning season. They claim that the spearing operations are reducing the run of salmon.

Apportionment of $16,841,233.48 of State funds to the publice schools of California was announced a few days ago by William John Cooper, State superintendent of public instruction. This is the first of two allotments to be made during the current school term. The great bulk of the money—$15,249,252.02—goes to the elementary or grade schools. This apportionment is based upon $700 for each teacher unit, augmented by additional amounts to reimburse elementary school districts for educating physically handicapped children. The second apportionment, which will be announced in February, will be on the basis of $5.91 per unit of average daily attendance.

Completion of the study of possible means of financing California's gigantic plan of State-wide water conservation is expected by Edward Hyatt Jr., State engineer by October 1. The investigation is being made by Lester Ready, consulting engineer and formerly chief engineer of the state railroad commission with the office of the state engineer. Hyatt stated that the study will involve exhaustive investigation of five possible sources of revenue, ranging from absolute public ownership at private power distribution under State supervision.

RECEPTION TONIGHT

The faculty of the Campbell Union high school will be tendered a reception this evening, Sept. 29, at 8 o'clock in the annex. The high school P. T. A. will be hostesses and they are very desirous that the parents and all other citizens interested in the welfare of the school and the personnel of the teachers should be present.

City Managers Slipping

Are our city managers losing their grip? Something is happening in California at least. Stockton's $20,000 city manager, Charles E. Ashburner, rather than fight with a hostile council, resigned not long back, and now Sacramento is to have a new manager next month. The new council at the capitol redeemed one of its campaign pledges by ousting H. C. Bottoroff, who has been city manager for six years. Bottoroff succeeded Clyde Seavey, now a member of the State Railroad Commission. Large salaries in no small measure contributed to the downfall of both managers. Stockton startled the public by paying Ashburner $20,000 a year. At this time he was city manager of a small city in Virginia, but his work had attracted widespread attention. Stockton got much publicity as the result of this salary, and so Sacramento thought it would get some, too.

The latter increased the salary of its manager to $15,000, and then the politicians in both cities started to undermine the city managers with so-called fancy salaries, just as they succeeded in doing when they drove City Manager Thomas Reed out of San Jose, whose salary was only $6,000. The politicians whispered that Reed was robbing the city, and yet many much smaller corporations than San Jose paid their managers more, a great deal more, than $6,000 a year. Persistent cries of big salaries, made for sinister purposes, eventually won out at Sacramento and Stockton.

The tax payers were led to think that they were being bilked, hence the reaction. Tax-payers don't stop to consider that city managers can only be had by paying them salaries something like private corporations are willing to pay their experts. The state of California has lost the services of more than one competent expert, working barely for a living wage, because some corporation stepped in with a tempting salary. City managers are entitled to remuneration approximating that paid by private concerns for similar service.

But speaking of city managers' troubles again, it is common talk that politicians are still scheming to dethrone City Manager Goodin at San Jose, whose tenure of office is in the hands of the more or less hostile city council. It is hard to see how any city manager can get very far when a majority vote of the council can put him out any time where his position is so unstable, how can any city manager display any independence, or urge hard any policies which might conflict with the opinions of the people who hire him.

Puzzling Election

This is a strange and unusual year in politics. Nothing like it was ever experienced by the oldest politicians. Republicans are calling for speakers to be sent into Texas to carry it for Hoover, and the Democrats claiming that they will win Philadelphia and Pittsburg for Al Smith. Unless all signs fail we are going to receive some startling election returns a month or so hence. Precincts that never went Republican before will go this time, and the same can be said about the Democratic. There are so many cross currents, like religion, family tradition, personal habits, racial and what not, that it makes it an election most difficult to prognosticate. But our feeling is that we are in for surprises.

After what happened last week Florida real estate values are liable to be in for another slump.

NO HAZING AT THIS SOUTHERN COLLEGE

How much more in accord with our boasted civilization and progress the methods described in the following news note seem than those reported from many of our institutions of higher learning:

More than 1600 new students were welcomed on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles yesterday in a spirit of hospitality radically differing from the former hazing programs that once prevailed on college campuses.

Instead of being submitted to a series of humiliating ceremonies and physical buffeting, freshmen were cordially greeted by upper classmen, organized for the purpose, and offered every assistance in establishing themselves in their new environment. Preparatory to the opening day, meetings were conducted by the various student groups designed to orient the newcomer and to make their registration and induction into classes as agreeable as possible.

"Senior Sisters" were stationed about the grounds for the purpose of extending whatever aid they could to women students who were strange to the university. Special functions, such as teas, luncheons, assemblies and rallies were the order of the opening week, to familiarize the newcomers with the personnel of the university as well as with its traditions.

IN APPRECIATION

The passing of Mrs. Effie Birnbaum to her higher service calls from me a word of appreciation. The 12 years of her membership with the Campbell Congregational church has revealed to us a real daughter of Jerusalem, poetic in her nature and winsome in her attitude of faith. Mr. Eckles in his tribute to her memory rightly emphasized these things. I would desire to add a word concerning her valiant faith, and steadfast courage during the many weeks of suffering. Few have I seen during my ministry possessing such patience and thought towards those doing their utmost to help, as was the attitude of our sister.

She will be missed by many. Her responsive nature made her a good listener and her sincere anxiety for all good things led her oftentimes to express her feelings as to the work of the Kingdom of God. Although recently, ill health has kept her away from many of the activities of the church, in which she engaged, her interest never waned. Our prayers go out to her husband, Mr. J. C. Birnbaum and to her mother, Mrs. H. W. Walton, and to her son, Mr. Cecil Birnbaum.

Just try these tests!

Two strands of cord exactly the same length. One is Goodyear SUPERTWIST, the other usual standard cord. Tension is applied by these machines.

Snap! the standard cord breaks. SUPERTWIST remains intact.

Let's try it again with fresh strands same length. Tension is exerted, then relaxed. SUPERTWIST springs back taut like a rubber band. The other cord sags—no elasticity — it's dead.

Goodyear Tires are made of SUPERTWIST.

Supertwist gives and recovers to road shocks, while ordinary cords react as you have seen.

SUPERTWIST is another exclusive feature of Goodyear Tires.

May we make these tests for you and show you why you should INSIST on Goodyears?

MISS BEAL SAILS

Miss Flora R. Beal sailed from San Francisco on the Italian steamship Lene, via thePanama canal and the Mediterranean, to make her home for the next two or three years on the Balearic Islands, east of Spain.

Miss Beal had completed twenty-eight years of teaching English in the San Jose State Teachers college and on account of ill health has gone to this spot off the regular tourist travel to rest and enjoy its delectable climate for a time.

She is an aunt of Ira A. Beal of Rincon Ave. and he, with Mrs. Beal and their small sons went up to bid their relative bon voyage and enjoyed an inspection of the boat, which was a freighter carrying a few passengers.

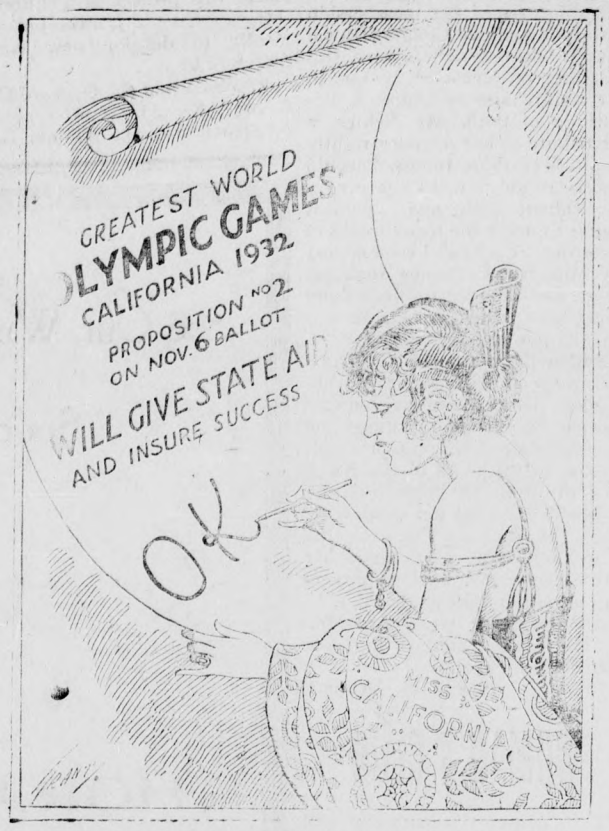
Unanimously Indorsed!



Ast he states of ancient Greece rallied unanimously to the support of their great Olympic festivals, making ofthem an enduring monument to Hellenic achievement and culture, so the people of all parts of California are pledging support of the world Olympic games to be held in this state in 1932. The Greek Olympiads, in the 1000 years of their existence, were made possible by financial aid provided by the city-states that made up the Hellas of antiquity. Despite that in those times no financial returns were possible as now, when visitors spend money by the millions in countries where the games are held, the ancient lawmakers deemed it a privilege to vote funds wherewith to carry on the great pyhsical and cultural contests that came each four years. The same condition evists today in California. The state legislature has voted $1,000,000 as the state's aid to the games that will be held here through several months of 1932, and people everywhere are pledging indorsement of Proposition No. 2 on the November 6 ballot that will make the appropriation available.

NASH'S HONORED

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Spugle were hosts to a small group of friends Saturday evening, with whist as their chief diversion.

The party was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nash of Santa Maria. Mr. Nash is known to patrons of the radio, as he has broadcasted over KSMR and recently over KQW.

Those who were asked to meet Mr. and Mrs. Nash were Messrs. and Mesdames Lee Brown, Tony Raffanti, Page Stratton and George Whitten.

BRIDGE PARTY

Among the events ushering in the early fall social season was the lovely bridge party Tuesday afternoon, at which Mrs. E. R. Kennedy was hostess to a group of friends from San Jose, Gilroy and Campbell.

Bowls of beautiful dahlias lent a colorful note that was successfully carried out in all the accessories of the card tables and the exquisite refreshments which were served at the conclusion of the games.

The dining table was very attractive with the new colored linen and glassware, with flower bowl and candle holders in the same shades. Delicate tones of lavender in flowers, candles and favors added to the dainty effect.

At the smaller tables green was the prevailing color.

Beautiful handkerchiefs, the hand work of the hostess, were awarded the winners.

KIDS AGAIN

The teachers of the Campbell Union Grammar school don't get enough of children, so they had a kiddies' party last Thursday evening in the kindergarten room of the school.

The affair was given by the former members of the faculty in honor of the new teachers, who are the Misses Margaret Dean, Kathryn Sevey, Mildred Sloan, Jean Turner and Mr. James Snell.

Dressed in the garb of childhood, they disported themselves in the games of youth and had a good time generally, concluding with dainty refreshments.

CLEANER MOVES

Ray Watkins our popular new cleaner has rented the front rooms of the IOOF buliding and is getting things ship-shape for his cleaning shop. He will soon receive his big pressing machine which when installed will greatly faciliate his labors.

Mr. Watkins reports already a noticeable increase of business during the past week. He has also a fine line of woven rugs on display which he is carrying for sale.

P. T. A. MEET OCT. 2

The Campbell grammar school P. T. A. will hold its first meeting of the year Tuesday, Oct. 2 at 2:15 p. m. It is very desirous to have a full attendance of old members, and all friends are most cordially invited.

Work for the year will be outlined and plans completed for the teachers' reception to be given at the school Friday evening, Oct. 5 in the kindergarten room.

Refreshments will be served and a social hour will be held in the cafeteria at the close of the meeting, according to Mrs. A. D. Rice, president of the organization.

CHURCH NOTICE

Odd Fellows Hall, Campbell. Branch of Upper Room Mission, San Jose. Services: Monday, 7:45 P. M. Bible study; Friday, 3:15 P M. children's church; Saturday, 8 P. M., special evangelistic services. We give you a hearty invitation to all services. Come.

Congregational Church
REV. J. H. Bennett, pastor

Next Sunday at 11 a. m.: Specially Anglo American service; special attendance of the Victory Lodge No. 287 American order, Sons of St. George, San Jose, and Lodge 2 of the Daughters of St. George. Preacher Rev. J. H. Bennett; subject: "Anglo American friendship." Anthem by the choir.

At 7:30 p. m.: Special meeting, at which Senator Herbert Jones will speak on the amendments to be voted upon next November. Everyone welcome.

A successful start was made last Sunday with these groups. Freshman, senior and high were well represented. The proposition for next Sunday's discussion is the second social principle of Jesus "That all men and women in this world are of one family in God." Come and bring your chums.

The young peoples' $1000 effort is forging ahead. Have your name down on one of the cards for a nickle a week for 62 weeks? The church is the home of all and it belongs to all. Will you help us to clear our debt? The amount for the three weeks amounts to over 58 dollars. It is the littles that count. Practices have already commenced on the operetta which is to be given at the auditorium before Christmas. The play is entitled: "Jan of Windmill Land." It will be given entirely by our junior and senior members of the Sunday school.

METHODIST CHURCH
W. C. Robins, pastor

Sunday school opens at 9:45. There are classes for all grades. Pastor's class for college young people and those out of school. Oct. 7 a new course of lessons for the fall of the year.

Rev. O. G. Langdon, conference director of religious education, will be with us and will preach at 11:00 a. m. Meeting for officers, teachers, and adults interested in Sunday school at 3 p. m. to council with Mr. Langdon.

6:30 Epworth League devotional service—John Lynden, leader; topic: "Eyes Front."

7:30 Half hour gospel singing—Mr. Richard Savaker will sing. Pastor will preach.

Thursday, Oct. 4 W. F. M. society meeting.

Wednesday, Oct. 3 our fall fellowship supper, rally and welcome home to pastor and wife. Let all members and friends come and bring one hot and one cold dish and sandwiches. Ladies will provide all necessary "fixins'."

"The Duff sisters," evangelists, will begin meetings with us Oct. 24 and continue until Nov. 11.
